Foreword

Wageningen University & Research is the only Dutch university and research institution with a One World Week to celebrate its international identity and the cultural diversity on its campus. And of course we are very proud of that. With over 100 nationalities Wageningen University & Research is a true international organisation. Wageningen University & Research staff and students want to excel in science and to act as global citizens. We aim at understanding not only scientific issues, but also our social and cultural environment. This shapes a way of thinking that enables our students, staff and alumni to work together in an international context in mutual respect and understanding.

We are curious to experience different cultures, different approaches and values and to learn from each other. In fact, many worlds come together in Wageningen and in the coming week we emphasize this. Have a good time!

Prof. dr. ir. Louise O. Fresco, President Executive Board

One World Week 2019

The One World Week is a week in which we celebrate the international scope of our education and research and the diversity in the Wageningen University & Research community. This week focuses on intercultural cooperation, sharing knowledge and experiences and having fun together. The One World Week is also a nice opportunity to share your cultural traditions or festivities that is personal to your home country. A cultural week for everybody! Grab this chance to interact, connect, have fun and learn about each other to become a world-wise citizen.

The activities are scheduled during lunch, at the end of the afternoon, in the evening and in the weekend and take place on Wageningen Campus or in Wageningen city centre. We have both cultural and sportive activities, such as: games, workshops, lectures, food, fashion, music and many more. We look forward to your visit!

Discussion: Youth and agriculture

10:00-19:00

Challenges and opportunities in Africa

In view of the current state of unemployment and underemployment in Africa, many youths are already making conscious efforts to engage in agriculture and the progress so far can only be expanded and sustained by providing them with the necessary information and enabling environment. Human capital investment of these young agricultural professionals is a stepping stone to economic development. How then can we leverage this conscious decision for agricultural development towards a viable socioeconomic transformation? See website for the different locations of the activities. Registration via the Facebook event.

Organised by UCAS | Orion

Opening

12:15-12:30

Opening speech by Prof. dr. ir. Louise O. Fresco, President Executive Board

OWW team | Orion, The Spot

The Whole World on a Catwalk

12:30-13:30

Discover all the colours of the world on our catwalk where many nationalities will adorn their national garments. Look out also for contemporary twists that update traditional outfits. You will get the chance to learn about traditions around the world in the medium of clothes.

ISOW | Orion, The Spot

Concert Ensemble der Ontzetting

12:30-13:30

Music meets people and themes! Music inspires people and the Ensemble der Ontzetting will play several pieces of music and contribute to the theme of the One World Week by their choices in pieces. The Ensemble is a small orchestra from the Student Harmonic Orchestra de Ontzetting.

de Ontzetting | Orion, The Spot

Storytelling Workshop

18:00-20:00

Stories are the veins of our modern world and anyone can tell a great story with the right tools. The aim of this workshop is to train you to be a great storyteller. Through theory and practice, we'll be touching upon topics such as the history of storytelling, the science behind a good story and the power of performance. And, of course, we'll have a good chinwag along the way!

Wageningen Storytelling Nights | Forum C314

University Fund Wageningen | Forum 031/034

Jump in your story

20:00-22:30

A playful theatre workshop with fun and creativity: we will explore theatre exercises, images and non-verbal language to look at our differences and similarities. In intercultural communication we try to understand each other, to accept differences and develop a genuine feel of involvement. Differences between cultures are easily visible. However, in order to connect one has to look for resemblances. By sharing personal experiences and emotions we discover similar issues and unexpectedly more resemblances: we connect. During this special edition of the jump-in-sessions we tell our stories and we get to know each other from another perspective!

Stichting Inspringtheater & Karin Verbeek | Forum C317

Pubcrawl

20:00-23:00

KSV Franciscus, SSR-Wageningen & W.S.V. Ceres will open their doors for a pub crawl and will organise together with Student Council Party VeSte a fantastic evening! We will show you the typical Dutch Student Culture, while visiting all major Student Associations and where delicious specialty beer will be waiting for you! Come and join the pub crawl! Ticket € 6 total for 3 special beers (1 per association). See website for ticket sale information.

Friday April 5

Go Study Abroad!

10:00-14:00

Do you want to explore the world? On 5th April there is an opportunity to 'speed date' with students from different universities abroad! Ask all your burning questions about their experience of studying at their home university! There is also a possibility to have information about Erasmus+ grant (financial support) for thesis/internship abroad! Come by and learn more about what Study exchange office has to offer for you!

Study Abroad Office | Forum Stage

Laughter Yoga: a universal Language

12:45-13:45

Laughter yoga is a way to connect with other people. Everybody has a different laugh and we can share them and celebrate our differences. In laughter yoga, we laugh for no reason. You don't need humour! We do laughter exercises (theatre-like) and breathing exercises. By laughing your brain makes endorphins which make you feel good and it relieves stress. This workshop is given by Samira van der Loo, who is a certified Laughter-Yoga teacher.

Otherwise | Forum C103

Hello, Wageningen!

16:00-18:00

Come and enjoy a guided tour behind the scenes through the city hall building. Exchange your ideas and experiences in Wageningen: for example housing, language barriers or sustainability through a fun speed date. Show off your knowledge during the quiz and win prizes. And last but not least, let's share experiences from your country on how democracy is organised there. Build up your network while enjoying homemade snacks prepared by students and council members! Everyone is welcome! No registration needed, unless you would like to participate in cooking snacks together with the council members! Then send an email to rani.temmink@connectwageningen.nl

Municipality Wageningen | City Hall Wageningen

Bringing people of the World together with Argentine Tango 18:00-19:15

Tango is a non-verbal conversation between two humans, and for that the dance is uttermost suitable to join people with different languages, cultures and ages together. For us, the essence of Argentine tango is to meet the other in the music. A tango dance can look big and spectacular, it does not mean that a dance with small and simple movements is a less finer dance. In fact, if you are attentive to yourself and your partner, that simple dance can be very special. Exactly in the Argentine Tango everything comes together. Connection, grace, movement from the inside, contact. Tango is a social dance, characterized by a constant embrace, without exaggeration or spectacular movements. 'The couple moves in harmony, connected, which in the man is reflected in the rhythm and in the woman in the sensuality of the movements'.

Tango Wageningen | THUIS

Biodanza 19:30-21:30

Biodanza is dancing in our own way, relaxing and moving with the rhythm of the music. We dance alone, together and with the whole group. The music is from jazz, salsa, up to classical and from all over the world. Biodanza is about having fun together in the dance, developing yourself and meeting new people. Biodanza is for anyone who loves music and to dance. Besides dancing it is also a way of living your life with respect to nature, cosmos and other human beings. Come and join us in the dance!

International Biodanza Wageningen | THUIS

Crazy Cultural Comedy Cabaret

20:00-22:00

A night of giggles-galore with the Wageningen Comedy Club! There is music, improv and sketches on the theme of culture. Join us as we make fun of all nationalities (especially about the Dutch) and enjoy some stereotypical slip-ups (especially about the Dutch) and some mocking musical madness (especially about... well, you get the idea!).

Wageningen Comedy Club | THUIS

Framing Global Poverty

20:00-22:00

Famines, drought, pot-bellied children. Such images usually come to mind when people in Europe think about poverty in developing countries. Many think that this is what the media tells them. However, the findings of Mirjam Vossens research challenge the assumption that the European media overwhelm us with pathetic images of the stereotypical 'hungry child'. What stories do those media really tell? And how come that the 'Western' perception of global poverty is so distorted? Vossen challenges journalists and development NGOs to think more carefully about exactly which stories to spread. And she invites the Western audience to check their worldview. Things may be better than you think.

The Art of Being Diplomatic:

12:45-13:45

Workshop Diplomacy Skills in English

'Diplomacy is the art of telling someone to go to Hell in such a way that he looks forward to the journey!' - Russian president Vladimir Putin.

Communicating effectively in English involves applying a layer of diplomacy to interactions in order to come across in a polite way. English speakers often use simple polite forms such as 'I'm afraid' or 'would it be OK if...' in order to soften the directness of their message, thereby protecting the 'face' of the other person. This is vital in any indirect culture, and the probability of achieving one's goals increases if they can be accomplished without evoking the hostility of other interested parties. This workshop will focus on the linguistic techniques employed by native speakers of English to transform potentially overly direct language into something a lot more diplomatic.

Wageningen In'to Languages | Forum C103

How to get into an international organisation

12:45-13:45

International Classroom Dialogue

12:30-13:45

Wageningen is, as the 2nd most international city of Europe, a global village and WUR reflects this with more than 10,000 students who come from over 100 nationalities. This, combined with a global cause, makes internationalisation an important subject to promote quality of education. Working with an international classroom comes with both insights and challenges. S&I wants to offer the opportunity to share your experiences and contribute to making the international classroom a success! Join for a fruitful debate with staff and students, so we can discuss challenges, but also potential solutions together.

S&I, Student Council Party | Forum C107

Stories around the world

12:45-13:45

Wageningen is situated near a river, like most old towns. Rivers have been our highways, as well as our borders. So have seas. The Dutch, like other people, sailed far and wide. And the water has brought us prosperity. At the same time, water is a threat. Rivers and seas take lives every year. We build dikes and seawalls, but we know we are never safe. We build strong ships, but not even the Titanic was unsinkable. Swamps and wells can harbour dangerous things. No wonder there are so many stories about water.

I will tell you some of those stories. Some stories will be typically Dutch, others will be from farther away. All will show something of our fascination with water.
