Practicing Feminist Political Ecology: Linking Gender, Theory, Self & Sustainable Development

Coordination: Chizu Sato (SCH)
chizu.sato@wur.nl

in conjunction with the WASS public lecture by dr Wendy Harcourt, ISS, the Hague

June 13 & June 14, 2017

Masterclass organised by the Wageningen School of Social Sciences (WASS), Wageningen University

Introduction & objectives of the course

Inequality is at the heart of sustainable development but inequality is not considered in most research on sustainable development. Blindness to inequality undercuts the validity and the impact of research on sustainable development. This masterclass will link gender and other dimensions of inequality to sustainable development in ways that support research. Participants in this masterclass will draw on the examples offered to integrate sensitivity to inequality in their own research.

This masterclass is organized around the WASS public lecture by dr. Wendy Harcourt (Associate Professor, International Institute of Social Studies, Erasmus University of Rotterdam). She will link theory, self, place-based knowledge, and policy relevant to sustainable livelihoods using the conceptual tools provided by feminist political ecology and diverse and community economies.

There are four parts to this masterclass:

1. mandatory preparatory reading;
2. review of preparatory reading before Dr. Harcourt's lecture;
3. public lecture and discussion; and
4. one page reflection paper focusing on the link between the content of this class and participants' own research.

Course participants are to submit a short statement (max. 1/2 page, page A4) by 7 June that: 1) introduces who they are in terms of disciplinary background and education; 2) outlines gender and diversity issues in sustainable development that are relevant in their own domain of study; 3) questions or issues on gender and diversity in sustainable development with which they would like to engage and why; and 4) expectations of the course.

Target group and learning outcomes

This course is intended for PhD students, postdoc, and staff members, across the social and environmental sciences, who want to expand their engagement with sustainable development through increased consideration of inequality.

After successful completion of this course, participants will be able to:

- understand the approaches and concepts presented and evaluate their value for research on sustainable development;
- use a gender and diversity perspective in their own research;
- identify if and how elements of the approaches presented enrich their own research project; and
- engage in active learning, critical thinking and academic debate.

Assumed prior knowledge

Course fees

For PhDs of WASS there is a fee of 50 euros. For all other participants and for staff members (fellows/post docs), there is a fee of 100 euros for the whole course (including tea/coffee).

- ii) Lectures to introduce and explain theoretical approaches and concepts on gender and diversity as well as contextualize these in the contexts of sustainable development;
- iii) Assignment (one page reflection paper) to critically reflect on the course materials including class discussions and apply these to the participant's own research;
- iv) A Q&A workshop with dr Wendy Harcourt to plenary discuss literature and assignments;

Participants are expected to read and prepare their thoughts on readings in advance of the preparatory session date, and to participate fully in discussions in class. The discussions will be chaired and guided by the coordinator. After the Q&A workshop, participants will write one page paper to critically reflect on the readings, the public lecture, and discussions and to discuss their relevance to their own research (due 17:00, June 21).

From Schiphol Amsterdam Airport to Wageningen

At the Airport you can buy a train ticket in the 'arrivals' area by the baggage claims. You will see the sign "Train tickets" near the exit. Then follow the signs 'Nederlandse Spoorwegen' (NS) or 'Trains and busses' to the railway station.

Purchase a one-way ticket to the Ede-Wageningen train station, this will cost € 14,10 (plus a service charge if you buy the ticket at the ticket counter). It is also possible to buy the ticket from the ticket vending machines in the station.

There are direct connections from Schiphol Amsterdam Airport to Ede-Wageningen every 30 minutes. Additionally, twice an hour there is a connecting service from Schiphol to Ede-Wageningen where you have to change trains in Utrecht. The destination boards on the platform will indicate the different stations where the train will stop. Check for the names Ede-Wageningen or Utrecht and board the train and when necessary change in Utrecht. The trip from Schiphol to Ede-Wageningen takes you a bit more than one hour.

For Dutch train connections use www.ns.nl, www.thalys.com, www.db.de

The train station is not located directly in Wageningen. This lack is fully compensated by fair means of transportation by buses and taxis. From railway station Ede-Wageningen you can take a taxi (approx. 15 min.). Taxis leave at the north side of the station. You can also come by bus: line 52 (direction Wageningen/ Arnhem) departs from the north side of the station or bus line 88 (Valleilijn, direction Wageningen) leaves from the south side of the station. You have to purchase a ticket from the driver in the bus, which will cost about 2 euros.
