Introduction

The Wageningen University Complaints Procedure for Students specify how students can submit a complaint¹ and how the complaint will subsequently be processed.

A complaint concerns the way in which the organisation or an organisational component or a person working under the responsibility of the organisation has behaved towards the complainant.

Students who are considering lodging a complaint must first explore, with the help of a student counsellor, whether they can resolve the complaint by discussing it with the person or persons to whom the complaint relates. If the complaint relates to a member of staff at Education & Student Affairs (ESA), the complaint can be discussed with the Dean of Education on behalf of the Executive Board. If the complaint relates to another organisational component, the complaint can be discussed with the relevant manager on behalf of the Executive Board. If the complaint is not resolved through this discussion, the student can file a complaint.

The complaint must be submitted to the Student Legal Protection Desk using the digital complaints form (link). The Student Legal Protection Desk will forward the complaint to the Complaints Committee as soon as possible, which will then process the complaint.

Furthermore, the student counsellor can, at the student's request, help him/her to contact the accused. The student counsellor can also, at the student's request, consult the parties involved to determine whether an informal solution is possible.
